

DAVID HIBBARD

Native to Chicago, David's corporate career began at Procter and Gamble. At P&G Dave developed the formal elements of his talent. Prior to co-founding Dialexis, David spent 18 years in the highly competitive commercial real estate industry. David relied upon aggressiveness, determination, and street savvy. As a result, he was honored as the "Number-One Rookie" in the country and the "Number-One Broker" in one of the most competitive brokerage operations in the United States. After achieving exceptional success brokering, David accepted a Senior Leadership role at Grubb and Ellis where he transformed his brokerage group into one of the most profitable and respected brokerage operations in the nation. His ranking as a sales and leadership instructor is exceptional. Following the formation of Dialexis, Dave has trained leaders from multiple industries throughout the United States. He was retained by DuPont as a leadership instructor at their Learning Center in Delaware, as well as trained leaders from EMC, Steelcase, Herman Miller, Cisco, Xerox and multiple other professional organizations.
